Performance management system framework as a step towards organizational development: A conceptual study

TA Mahesh Kumar and Dr. TV Raju

Abstract
Employee performance management is very simple in some ways and in other ways very complex. It consists of lots of parts and it requires some skills. But if it is approached with proper mindset it can work and pay great benefits. Performance management is a vital part of the process of managing human resources with the aim of achieving employee and organizational goals. The job description that occasionally accompanies the review bears little resemblance with the work being performed. The fast changing demands of the marketplace. Companies must adapt quickly if they wish to remain in business. The managers who do not adjust the performance expectations of their subordinates accordingly run a very high risk of reducing the value of an evaluation as well as the value added contributions of the employees. The present study is a conceptual paper on the Performance Management System.

Keywords: Performance, Evaluation, Measures

1. Introduction
Organizations are run and steered by people. It is through people that goals are set and objectives are realized. The performance of an organization is thus dependent upon the sum total of performance of its members. The success of an organization will therefore depend on its ability to measure accurately the performance of its members and use it objectively to optimize them as a vital resource. In the present highly competitive environment, organizations have to ensure peak performance of their employees continuously in order to compete and survive at the market place effectively.

Performance of an individual can be defined as the record of outcomes produced as specified job functions or activities during a specified time period. The term performance refers to a set of outcome produced during a certain period of their job time and does not refer to the traits, personal characteristics, or competencies of the performer. The evaluation of employee’s performance reveals the contribution of an individual in the organization’s objectives. People do not learn unless they are given feedback on the results of their actions. For corrective actions to take place feedback must be provided regularly and it should register both successes and failures (Biswaieet 2009).\(^1\)

2. Objectives\(^2\)
The main objectives of performance appraisal point out the following:
1. Provide inputs to
   (a) System of rewards comprising salary increment, appreciations, additional responsibilities, promotions, etc., and
   (b) Salary administration.
2. Generate adequate feedback and guidance from the reporting officers to the employee.

---

3. Enhancing employee’s effectiveness: helps the employee to overcome his weaknesses and improve his performance by providing appropriate training and development program.

4. Help identifying employee for the purpose of motivating, training and developing them.

5. Generate significant, relevant, free and valid information about employees.

3. Employee Performance

Every organization has been established with certain objectives to achieve. These objectives can be achieved by utilizing the resources like men, machines, materials and money. All these resources are important but out of these the manpower is the most important. It plays an important role in performing tasks for accomplishing the goals. The question arises that how these resources are utilizes by manpower. Further, the business environment is changing drastically.

The environmental factors are uncontrollable. These are beyond control of management of the firms. One has to adjust with the external factors to do the business in the market. Every environmental factor like social, cultural, legal, political, economic, technology and competition gets changed very fast. For effective working the knowledge of these factors is must otherwise the plan will misfire. In present situation it is difficult to predict about anything. It is uncertain to say that what will happen tomorrow.

Again the need for highly skilled and dedicated manpower is felt who can give the best output. Nowadays the markets are also very competitive and there is cut throat competition. For every organization it is difficult to start, survive, stabilize and excel in the business. The firm that gets the advantage over other competitors through their talented and dedicated manpower can take the lead in the market. The contribution of employees on job is the most important factor for development and excellence in business. The performance of employees on different jobs in close coordination is needed for success of the unit.

4. Benefits of Performance Management

Performance management is a very important part of human resource management. The focus of it is on development aspects of individual and organisation performance. The approach of performance management is positive. In present highly competitive environment, a high degree of skill and commitment is needed to understand the environment and perform accordingly. Everybody is benefited by actions of performance management. It is bit difficult to summarise the benefits of it in detail. It is possible to get all employees to reconcile personal goals with organizational goals. One can increase productivity and profitability for any organization and that leads to progress of the organization. It can be applied by organisations or a single department or section inside an organisation as well as an individual person.

The process is a natural, self-inspired performance process and appropriately named the self-propelled performance process (SPPPP). It is claimed that the self-propelled performance management system is:

(a) The fastest known method for career promotion;
(b) The quickest way for career advancement;
(c) The surest way for career progress;
(d) The best ingredient in career path planning;
(e) The only true and lasting virtue for career success;
(f) The most neglected part in teachings about management and leadership principles;
(g) The most complete and sophisticated application of performance management;
(h) The best integration of human behaviour research findings, with the latest management, leadership and organisational development principles;
(i) The best automated method for organisational change, development, growth, performance and profit;
(j) The quickest way for career building, career development and moving up on the stepping stones of the corporate career ladder;
(k) The surest and fastest way for increased motivation, productivity, growth, performance and profitability for both the individual and the organisation;
(l) The best career builder and career booster for any career; and inspirational, as it gets people moving, makes them self-starters in utilising own talents and initiative, automatically like magic.

It helps in creating good working environment of openness, mutual trust, cooperation and team spirit. People work with their high degree of motivation and without work stress. In healthy working environment people work in team and that leads to multidimensional benefits to individuals, teams, departments, sections, divisions and organisation as a whole.. The benefits of it are numerous and these are financial and non-financial both. Managing employee or system performance facilitates the effective delivery of strategic and operational goals. Following are the gains from performance management:

(a) Financial Gains

Financial gains from performance management are following:
(i) Improve productivity and production of the company.
(ii) Reduce costs due to sincere and skilled manpower.
(iii) Complete the projects well in time because everyone is giving his best performance at work.
(iv) Aligns the organizational and individuals goals and that avoids all delays in performance.
(v) Through proper and timely communication the objectives are clarified and desired action can be achieved from employees as management wants.

(b) Non-Financial Gains

Following are non-financial gains from performance management:
(i) Healthy working environment avoids work stress of the employees,
(ii) Optimizes incentive plans to specific goals for over achievement, not just business as usual
(iii) Employees feel satisfied when the working environment is friendly.
(iv) Employees get chance for further career development, training and promotion etc.
(v) A sense of belongingness, attachment and commitment develops among employees.
(vi) It leads to a high degree of motivation in employees and further creates a sense of loyalty towards the organisation.

6. Principles of Performance Management Plan
For effective working of performance management, management must keep certain guidelines in mind. These guidelines may help in proper working and avoid much confusion during work. Experts have suggested the following principles:

(a) Continuous Coaching, Feedback and Communication
Performance management is considered a continuous process, not an event. For its proper and effective working the principles of continuous coaching and feedback are integral to success. These will definitely coordinate the related activities properly.

(b) Effective Communication
The Performance Management Plan gets involved line managers, supervisors, experts and consultants. To coordinate between them a proper timely and effective communication is needed. If is not there the objective of the plan will be defeated. It will ensure mutual understanding of work responsibilities, priorities, and performance standards and measurements.

(c) Discussion and Evaluation
Discussion and evaluation of specific job should be there. The discussion and evaluation should be regarding nature of jobs, tasks, competencies needed to perform these jobs, major duties and responsibilities and the performance standards. These must be specifically defined and communicated as the first step in the process.

(d) Performance Standards
Performance standards for each major duty / responsibility must be defined and communicated to all concerned. These standards are to be decided in mutual discussion with line managers, manager in charge of the job, persons performing the jobs, in house experts and consultants. Through detailed discussion the lowest, highest and average performance of the performers are to be taken in to account before finalizing the performance standard. These must be feasible to achieve by an average performer.

(e) Employee Involvement and Development
The performance management revolves around the manpower. The management must kept in mind that they must be involved the it and efforts must be there for their development and improvement of performance at work. They must be motivated to develop their competencies, involve in the jobs and give best output to contribute in achievement of the organizational goals. Without proper involvement and development of employees it is not at all effective.

(f) Fair Performance Evaluation
The evaluation of the performance of people at work should be carried out timely. It should be fair without favour and fear. If it is done so then the exact poison of the performance given by the employees will be clear. Otherwise misleading result will be there. The very objective of the performance measurement will not be served. The performance evaluation should not be frequent but at least annually it should be carried out because it is time and efforts consuming.

(g) Proper Documentation
The principle of proper documentation should be considered an important principle for effective working of the plan. The plan should be drawn and documents should be prepared. It should be communicated for all concerned who have been identified. The development, recognition, compensation and reward plan should be in black and white. Proper records are to be maintained. Further, proper documents of performance appraisal are needed for further remedial action. It these are not prepared then whenever confusion is there the documentary evidence cannot be given and management has nothing to refer in case of doubts arise regarding past decisions taken.

(h) Performance Evaluation for Every One
The performance appraisal of all employees should be carried out. It is not only applicable to lower and middle levels. It should be applied to the top level also. The senior level performs must be evaluation on the basis of the successful administration of the plan and ongoing performance management responsibilities.
